

AFRM CLAIMS ADVOCACY

Grieving the death of someone close to you can be a difficult. Also, there are many things to consider. What is often overlooked is the deceased's life insurance policy. For most people aged 20- 65 years of age, there is automatic life insurance in the deceased's superannuation fund (Cbus, Australian Super etc).

How do you know if the deceased had life insurance?

AFRM Claims Advocacy (ACA) are dedicated claim advocates. Daily they manage personal insurance claims only - such as life insurance claims.

Their purpose is to alleviate the financial stress on families during their time of need. They do this by checking if a loved one had a life insurance policy (including in their superannuation fund - Australian Super, Cbus, Hesta, etc)

AFRM Claims Advocacy (ACA) can find out if your loved one had life insurance. They can also help you access your loved one's life insurance (incl. the life insurance in the superannuation fund) and guide you through each step of the way.

Being a family that belongs to Funera we can check if your loved one had life insurance for FREE.

Types of personal insurance?

There are four main types of personal insurance: Life Insurance, Income Protection, Trauma and Total & Permanent Disability Insurance.

Life Insurance Policy (Death Benefit Claims) – the benefit payment is a lump sum paid to the beneficiary upon the death of the policy holder. The average death / life insurance benefit can be up to $299,000.

Service & Fees

The claim process is a 2-step process.

1. The first step is the research phase – work out if there is a claim (y/n).
As a FUNERA Pty Ltd family member this is free (normally valued at $880).
2. Manage the Claim. This includes helping with all the claim paperwork and dealing with the insurer on your behalf, until the claim is complete.
On average, beneficiaries receive up to $299,000 from the claim, our fee to manage the claim is $3,875.

Please note all fees payable post the completion of the claim outcome. No upfront fees.
